

Empowering companies to drive their sustainability journey through data

But companies are spending hundreds of hours a year collecting and reporting data

For every 250 FTEs, min 2 months is wasted on data collection only and it increases exponentially.

We provide a SaaS platform for companies to coordinate the collection and management of all sustainability-related data in one place, both internally and across their stakeholders.

With Pelt8, you can automate your regulatory and sustainability reporting across frameworks, continuously evaluate your footprint, and visualize your results through dashboards and reports.

- With Pelt8 you aggregate data from within your organisation
Collect data across departments, geographies & systems
- across your stakeholders
Gather data from clients or portfolio companies to provide new products
- share with any organisation
Share data & reports to organisations requesting disclosures
- and evaluate your impact continuously
Gain data insights by connecting via APIs to various specialized sustainability tools

We help organisations move from running inefficient data collection processes towards simplified and digital ones. By doing this, we do not only enable organisations to make the best of their data but leverage these processes to push sustainability goals across their operations. This way we set the foundations for companies to scale their impact.
